Artist Statement:

I am a self-taught visionary artist. Every painting I create is a story I am compelled to tell. Every image that evolves is an unknown destination, a utopia, that awaits its own evolution. This is why I paint.

My mission as an artist, is to see, feel and illustrate the intangible vibrations derived from my life's journey and to create happy places. I flashback to my childhood days where I could be found sketching goddess like women, writing poems, short stories, and collaborating with my sister about our next make-believe tea party. I love to bring about nostalgia and childhood memories that evolve from the joy of simpler days and times. My collectors have shared with me that their space is a very happy place having my art as a focal point. I envision unlimited opportunities to brighten the world and bring magic into the spaces of others with my artworks. This is why I paint.
